Queen Leona Reigns Supreme

Most Successful Week of Bazaar and Festival in American Fork's History Comes to a Close Tonight With Play "Tempest and Sunshine."

The American Fork subjects of Queen Leona will tonight close one of the most successful weeks in local history. Commencing Monday the festivities opened under the name of an Autumn Festival. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the people were without a ruler, and enjoyed themselves without restraint.

However, at the Thanksgiving banquet Thursday, Queen Leona assumed her royal sway and occupied her flag draped throne in the banquet hall of the Tabernacle. She was beautifully gowned in a creation of white satin overdressed with white chiffon. Her only ornament was a necklace of pearls, and the crown also of pearls, which was worn with a truly queenly air. The Queen made her second appearance Thursday evening at the Queen's Ball in the Apollo Hall, where her subjects were pleased to do her homage by one of the largest attendance so far this season.

Monday afternoon was children's day, and if there were any children who were not there they lived outside of American Fork. The basement of the Tabernacle was completely filled with them, and they enjoyed the dancing to the utmost. Monday evening the musical and literary talent of the Brigham Young University gave a most artistic concert in the auditorium of the Tabernacle. This event was not patronized as it should have been, for it deserved a crowded house.

Tuesday was Relief Society afternoon, and a dozen ladies gave the imitable representation of a bunch of old maids going into a mysterious machine and coming out winsome talented, 16-year-old maidens.

Tuesday evening was the Queen's Election Ball in the Apollo, when Miss Leona Clark, one of Am Fork's most beautiful and popular young women, was elected Queen of the Festival. Up until the last few minutes of the voting, Miss Arvilla Christensen was in the lead. Just at the last moment Miss Clark's friends came in with a lot of votes, and when they were counted the result stood as follows:

Leona Clark	47
Margaret Blackhurst	27
Arvilla Christensen	23
Merle Boley	19
Lillian Brown	18
Nellie Buckwalter	15
Rosella Storrs	14
Dorothy Chipman	13
Alta Beck	12
Myrtle King	11
Bertha Bassett	10
Luna Chipman	9
Ora Chipman	8
Elva Chipman	7

Wednesday evening was one of the most delightful evenings of the season and it proved to be the most popular one also. Mr. Wm. A. Morton of the Lake City, originally from Bellefleur, Ireland, took the big audience on a trip through Ireland. Showing them the giant causeway, and London day in the north, the Blarney Castle in Queenstown in the south, and the roaming through Belfast, Dublin, Cork and the Lakes of Kilarney. Accompanying the pictures was a tale with Mr. Morton's delightful Irish dialect, jokes and witticisms.

Thursday was the climax of the week's festivities, when at high noon the big Thanksgiving dinner was served. The main assembly room in the basement of the Tabernacle was filled with four tables the full length, and which accommodated over 300 people. The tables were filled several times with banquets. Besides this a table in another room was filled several times with working men who came in for lunch. The banquet used up 135 chickens, roasted and boiled, 109 mince pies, four boilers of plum puddings, one 250 pound veal, 30 pounds of butter, 250 loaves of bread. 20 pounds of pink eye beans, besides vast quantities of potatoes, cabbage, parsnips, turnips, beets, cauliflowers, celery, tea, coffee, sugar, pickles, carrots and cranberry sauce. Twenty ladies, five from each ward, were used as cooks, and as many more dressed in white caps and white aprons acted as waitresses, and did their work well, too. All who attended were loud in praising the excellency of the repast. The local power company supplied four electric cook stoves and the necessary power to cook the pies and chickens. Besides these there were four other cook stoves used. The Forbes band of Alpine supplied music during the banquet.

Thursday afternoon the youngsters again crowded the Apollo Hall at another children's dance, and in the evening was the Queen's ball referred to above.

Last evening there was a repetition of the Old Maids' Cantata, with two reels of motion pictures, which again drew a big crowd.

The bazaar feature has also been a great success. The sale of fancy work and wearing apparel has netted a good sum, and been the means of attracting many to the Festival. Each day, excepting Wednesday, the committee has served meals and lunches and has been well patronized. Another feature also has been the two "Old Ladies" with deep voices and a hundred pockets selling their wares at 5 cents per grab.

The Festival closes tonight with one of the best entertainments of the week, the production of "Tempest and Sunshine," in the Opera House, by the American Fork Players—prices 5 and 10 cents.

Work Suspended On City Well

City Experiment Well Dows Eight Feet—Water Comes In So Rapidly That New Pump Becomes Necessary.

Work was temporarily suspended on the city experiment well this week, not because of any failure, but because of success. When a depth of eight feet was obtained, the water came in so fast that the pump could not keep it out fast enough for the men to work. It was coming in from the sides and boiling up from the bottom like a big spring.

The pump used had a three inch discharge, but would throw a small irrigation stream. It is operated with an electric motor. This pump will be substituted with a larger pump and development work proceeded with.

Water began to come in when a depth of but four feet had been attained, and has steadily increased as greater depth was reached. The wood staves for cribbing are doing their work well and seem to have been a happy thought. Iron bands made from wagon tires are placed inside and are placed every few feet up the staves. As the gravel and quick sand is excavated, the staves are driven down and an additional iron band is added. The original staves were but eight feet in length, so when the new pump is obtained, new staves will also have to be provided.

The experiment is one of the most important undertaken here in years. It is being watched with great interest by not only local people but those from the out side. In many places in this county there are similar conditions, where subterranean streams, but a few feet from the surface, with the cheap power we have, are available for irrigation purposes. An interesting feature connected with the city well is that the water seems to be coming largely from the opposite side from where the main stream comes down the creek bed from the canyon, thus proving that the water does not come from this source.

Army Horses Hard To Get

Buyer For the Allies Secures Thirteen Horses in Lehi, American Fork and Pleasant Grove.

Dunn, representing Campbell and of St. Louis, was in American Fork Wednesday buying horses for the Allies. They will be sent to the Allies and are for purposes. Over 100 head of horses were brought to Beck's stables, but only four were suitable. They were too low, too young or too high in price. The requisites were that they be under five years of age, and any of the cups worn on the hind legs, and sound in other respects. Horse men think they would come up to these requisites, but were worth more than willing to pay—The buyer offered $75 to $125. One horse from Lehi, and two from Pleasant Grove and two from American Fork.

Man Sent To Penitentiary

Man, the young man from Salt Lake in the 13th and passed through the courts, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of passing a fictitious check for $25 on Fletcher & Thomas at Provo. He pleaded guilty before Judge Morgan this week and was sentenced to serve from one to ten years in the state prison.

This is the young man who was arrested with the stolen auto by Marshal Bromley last week, escaped from the officers and later arrested on an Interurban car dressed in the garb of a woman.

SELLING BOOZE TO BOYS

Thanksgiving night two young boys, 18 and 19 years of age, were found laid out helplessly drunk. When aroused from their stupor one of them promised to tell who sold them the stuff, but when taken to the City Hall, told unlikely stories and were locked up to appear before the court. It was certainly pitiful to see these young boys in such a condition, and it is to be hoped, the man who sold them the liquor, if proven guilty, gets the full penalty the law allows. Every parent, without exception, should do what they can to stop this "booze" selling to boys.

American Fork Winners

It should be very gratifying to the citizens of American Fork to know that our boys were so eminently successful in the agricultural contest work carried on this summer under the direction of the M. I. A. and School District.

Boys and girls in the entire north end of Utah county entered the various contests with enthusiasm. The work in the American Fork district was under the direct supervision of Mark H. Green. No better evidence than our "Fair" need be called to convince the public that the summer's work was a genuine success. Mr. Green made constant and regular visits to the boys' homes, and each time he called gave the boy his rating in the particular contest entered. His suggestions and the literature he secured from the Federal Government and various colleges were of exceptional assistance to the contestants.

Unfortunately for the work, Mr. Green resigned his position with our High School that he might take post graduate work at the University of Wisconsin. This necessitated his leaving us before the conclusion of the work. However, his plans were so well laid and his records so accurately tabulated that it was comparatively easy for his associates to continue advisory work to the end of the contest.

We publish herewith a list of the state and local prizes carried off by American Fork boys.

Library Opens Soon

The committee in charge of the establishing of the free public library announce that nearly everything is in readiness for the opening. The building has been completed, a vast number of books have been subscribed and part of the necessary furniture has been offered. The grand final, prior to the opening, will be a book shower, which is intended to surpass anything of a similar nature heretofore attempted here. The committee has felt that nothing should be done to interfere with the Autumn Festival, but as soon as this is over preparations on the library opening will be resumed.

Mrs. John Beck and daughter, Desale, left Wednesday for a ten day's visit in Bingham, with her daughter, Mrs. Sam Kelly.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Nielsen and Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Osborne motored to Provo Sunday and spend the day with friends.

Why should you patronize any business firm who does not invite you to? Read the ads of live business firms in your home paper—they are the merchants and business men who are helping to push your city to the front.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Murdock and family of Provo, and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Henroid were guests at a Thanksgiving dinner at the home of L. C. Henroid Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Webb announce the engagement of their daughter, Leona, to Mr. Alfred Hansen of Draper. The marriage to take place in the Salt Lake Temple December 10th.

Buying at home is not a duty but just good, plain, ordinary common sense. It means that when you pay out money that that money is likely to be employed at home in new stocks, new buildings and enlarged enterprises. It means that eventually some of that money is likely to get back into your own pocket. For you have something to sell as well as the merchant—crops or labor or services or something. The more money that is in circulation among your neighbors, the more likely are they to be able to buy what you have to sell. The mail order house is not going to buy your products, whatever they may be. The idea of commerce is the exchange of commodities, the buying and selling to each other, which makes each man in the community a necessity and furnishes each commodity with a demand. Keep the money at home where it can be a circulating medium bringing you employment and a market and helping the town to grow and prosper.
